STEAMER STRIKES REEF AT CAPE
MENDOCINO, CALIF., IN A
HEAVY FOG

M. D. TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Eureka, Calif., Aug. 8—Forty-eight persons, 36 passengers and 12 of the crew, were lost last night when the steamer Alaska of the San Francisco & Portland Steamship company, south bound from Portland, Ore., to San Francisco, sank 30 minutes after crashing into the rocks of Blunt's Reef, 40 miles south of this city.

The survivors, numbering 166 persons, were brought here today by the rescue ship Anyox, the first vessel to reach the scene of the wreck in response to the Alaska's radio signals. The coast guard tug Ranger, despatched early today from Eureka, returned to port with the bodies of 12 men. Eight were members of the crew and four were passengers. Captain Harry Hobe, master of the Alaska, is still unaccounted for and is believed to have gone down with the ship.

Eureka, Calif., Aug. 8—Although all eyes were turned to the mournful beach off Cape Mendocino, Calif., opposite Blunt's reef, where the passenger steamer Alaska foundered Saturday night, no bodies of the missing, estimated at forty-three, had washed up on the sands today.

The coastguard cutter "Venture" patrolling the tragic waters off Blunt's reef has discovered none of the dead whose bodies the sea has apparently claimed. Of the seventeen bodies lying on the marble slabs of the Humboldt county morgue only nine have thus far been identified.

A goodly party of survivors who were injured or who had sufficiently revived from the shock to travel, left today for San Francisco where they will arrive tonight.

Official investigation into the wreck was started today. The point where the Alaska lies is inside of Blunt's reef lighthouse. It should have been nearly one mile out. The vessel had not been properly navigated according to mariners.

The Alaska's navigator lost his bearing in the heavy fog. True to tradition of the sea, Captain Harry Hovey went down with the ship when the treacherous fingers of the reef opened the bottom of the vessel. The ship went down in thirty minutes. Her wireless called for help to the last.

Passengers charged that a partly green crew recruited during the marine strike bungled the launching of some of the life boats.

Nearly all of the passengers were drenched in fuel oil from bursting tanks. Most of the survivors were in a pitiful condition.

On the heels of the steamer bearing the living, came the tug Rogers bearing the bodies of twelve dead on deck. A fisherman's boat later slipped into the harbor with five more bodies and two empty lifeboats picked up near the scene of the wreck.

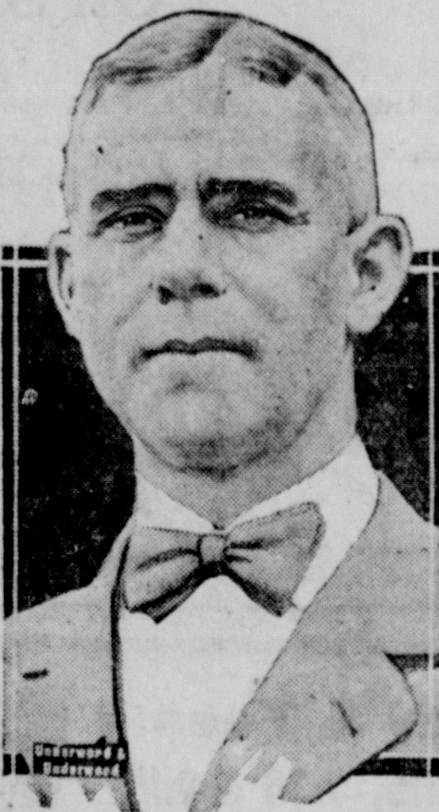

Speed competition between coastwise vessels was blamed in marine circles for the disaster, for most of half a hundred wrecks which have strewn the reefs and harbor of the Pacific during the last twenty years. In order to save time, coastwise passengers hug close to the treacherous shoreline instead of keeping out to sea.

Dead Number 45
Eureka, Calif., Aug. 8—Forty-five persons were believed dead in the Alaska ship disaster today, according to latest estimates.

Seventeen bodies are in the Humboldt county morgue and twenty-eight are missing, according to the last list made public by the steamship officials.

Little hope is held out for the 28 reported missing as it is believed the sea swallowed up the bodies shortly after the Alaska struck the reef on Saturday night. Although the coast

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR RETURNS TO CAPITAL

WHERE SHERIFF WILL SERVE A WARRANT ON HIM FOR EM-
BEZZLING PUBLIC FUNDS

(By United Press)

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 8—The indicted governor of Illinois arrived at the capital today.

Governor Len Small charged with juggling millions in state funds while serving at state treasurer, came by automobile from his home in Kankakee to Sangamon county where Sheriff Mester has warrants for his arrest.

Small has been away from the executive office for nearly two weeks. He left when Judge Elbert Smith ruled the governor was not above arrest. From that time the governor has been touring the state roads with his 'capitol on wheels.'

The governor when he arrived announced he would be at the executive office at 10 a. m. ready to transact state business.

Sheriff Mester was expected to notify the governor that warrants for his arrest are in his possession.

"I expect Governor Small to walk in and give bond today," the sheriff said. "I won't make any attempt to rush him and I will give him plenty of time to prepare. However, if the state executive remains here until Friday you may take it for granted the warrant will be served."

The sheriff said he would seek an agreement if the executive does not appear today.

The belief prevails about the sheriff's and city attorney's office that Small's lawyers have something up their sleeve to pull off when the warrant is served.

CRAZED BY MOON- SHINE, JOS. HOZEL KILLS MAN WITH AX

MURDER WAS CLIMAX OF FIST
FIGHT—SHERIFF'S POSSE
AFTER THE SLAYER

(By United Press)

Wausau, Wis., Aug. 8—Sheriff Fred Schroeder headed a posse which is scouring the woods near Texas, 12 miles north of here today in a search for Joseph Hozel, 26, who Sunday night killed Jack Ryan, 22, with a blow on the head with an axe and seriously injuring Pierce Ryan, 26, according to the officer.

Hozel went into the woods heavily armed. Sheriff Schroeder said the fugitive possessed two revolvers, a sawed-off shot gun and a large quantity of ammunition when he fled from the scene of the slaying to concealment in the heavy timber. A battle by Hozel is anticipated by the posse and they are prepared to bring him out dead or alive, the sheriff said.

Hozel, a Kentucky man, was crazed with moonshine when he killed Ryan with an axe, according to the sheriff. When Pierce Ryan started to interfere to save his brother's life the weapon was turned on him. Ryan fled closely pursued by Hozel. In trying to leap over a barbed wire fence his clothes caught and held him fast. Hozel struck the helpless man on the head knocking him unconscious.

The murder was the climax of a fist fight in which Jack Ryan is said to have been getting the better of Paul Poeple, Hozel's brother-in-law.

"We expect to have Hozel under arrest at noon today," said the sheriff. Physicians said that Pierce Ryan probably would recover.

Forest Fires Destroy Prop- erty in New Brunswick

St. Johns, N. B., Aug. 8—Endangering summer homes and farm property a great forest fire raced along the St. Johns river today.

Sixty houses were known to have been destroyed. Some live stock was killed. Many persons had narrow escapes from death.

100 are Homeless
St. Johns, N. B., Aug. 8—More than one hundred persons were made homeless by forest fires which swept down the St. Johns river valley yesterday and today.

Summer camps and farmsteads were wiped out. The loss counted temporarily was estimated at more than $600,000. At least sixty-five homes were destroyed. Occupants of the houses, some of whom had narrow escapes, were cared for in St. Johns. One family escaped in a canoe, the flames from behind lighting the way for miles. Heavy rains today aided fire fighters in getting the blaze under control.

Members of Irish Parliament Released

Dublin, Aug. 8—Ten imprisoned members of the Irish parliament were released today in accordance with Britain's promise to permit them to discuss peace proposals.

The men were freed from the internment camp at Currough. Irish Demand McKeown's Release Irish peace negotiations were held up temporarily to await result of the Sinn Fein demand for the release of John G. McKeown, imprisoned member of the Dail Eireann.

McKeown was detained while other members of the Irish parliament were released to consider the peace proposals to be laid down before them by President De Valera.

McKeown was convicted of murder, but his associates held the deed was committed as an act of war.

BISHOP'S SON IS HELD FOR MURDER OF J. B. KENNEDY

ARRESTED AT LOS VEGAS, NEV-ADA—TAKEN BACK TO LOS ANGELES FOR TRIAL

(By United Press)

Los Angeles, Aug. 8—Arthur Courtney Burch was grilled today in connection with the murder of wealthy J. B. Kennedy. Burch is son of a retired Evanston, Illinois minister and personal friend of Mrs. Madelyne Oberchain, who was with Kennedy when he was shot from ambush in front of his cottage Saturday night. He was brought here handcuffed, from Los Vegas, Nevada, where he was taken from an east bound train Saturday.

Authorities continued to question Mrs. Oberchain, former wife of Ralph Oberchain, Chicago attorney. She is held as a material witness.

Police said today that there is a strong state case against Burch, although they have not established a motive.

Burch, son of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. A. Burch of Evanston, Illinois, and former son-in-law of Bishop Wm. Quayle, was an intimate friend of Mrs. Oberchain and Kennedy. After his arrest at Los Vegas Burch readily agreed to waive extradition and returned to Los Angeles.

Stands by Divorced Wife

Chicago, Aug. 8—"I am waiting Madelynes call. If she wants me or if it appears to me there is anything I can do to help her I will take the next train for Los Angeles."

That is what Attorney Ralph B. Oberchain said today. He said he was "standing by, ready at a moment's notice to speed to the side of his former wife, Madelyne Oberchain, held at Los Angeles as a material witness in the murder of J. B. Kennedy."

"I still love her—I always will," Oberchain declared.

BODY OF DR. STONE IS RECOVERED, IS BEING BROUGHT OUT

(By United Press)

Banff, Alberta, Aug. 8—Over the same tortuous route that led him to death over Mount Eanon the body of Dr. W. E. Stone, late president of Purdue university, was being brought here today.

Guides who finally wormed their way down the precipice on the mountain abyss to where the body lay since July 16, were bringing it out on a stretcher, according to word brought here by members of the Alpine club. It was believed that Mrs. Stone would suggest burying the body in the mountains here.

Tax on Advertising is Suggested in Congress

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 8—A tax on newspaper, magazine and bill board advertising has been suggested by some members of the ways and means committee during their conference on tax revision bills, it was learned today.

A request has come to the treasury department for the yield of such a tax. Suggestions have also been made that postal rates on second class matter be increased because of an estimated deficit of $70,000,000 in the postal department during the present year.

Unemployed Riot in London, Millions in Property Destroyed

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 8—One of the most serious unemployment riots of the year resulted in a wholesale fight and destruction of $5,000,000 worth of property here today.

More than six thousand unemployed men engaged in the riot. More than five hundred mounted police fought the mob back.

The demonstration occurred at GHIK-stein lumber yards, the largest in England, when 6,000 men applied for fifty vacancies.

17 YEAR OLD BOY KILLS HIS MOTHER

CONFESSES TO THE CRIME—SAY-ING THE FIRST SHOT WAS AN ACCIDENT

(By United Press)

Booneville, Ind., Aug. 8—Willie Duffendoll, 17, the younger of two brothers held in connection with the murder of their widowed mother, Laura Duffendoll, age 70, confessed today that he was the slayer.

Willie, who had steadily accused his elder brother Dolly of the murder, said the first shot was accidental and that he shot his mother two times after that because he "did not want to see her suffer."

Willie told his story without a tear in his eyes.

"I am certain of one thing," Coroner Kirkhaus said, "Willie killed his mother but he has not told the truth by a long shot. The accident story is absurd."

According to the story told to Coroner Kirkhaus Willie left Booneville Wednesday, July 27 arriving at Tennyson that night. The next day he returned home.

"Willie," the coroner said, "told me his mother fussed at him all day for having come home. He said she told him he should have stayed in Tennyson and hunted for a job."

STATE COOPERATIVE LIVE STOCK ASSN. STARTS BUSINESS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Aug. 8—The Minnesota Livestock Cooperative Association started business at South St. Paul today.

Four car loads of cattle were received as a starter this morning. The association is operating on rates advertised at twenty to thirty-five per cent lower than the usual rate.

Two hundred and forty Minnesota livestock organizations and twenty from Wisconsin are cooperating. More than fifty thousand farmers are represented in the project, according to W. A. McKerrow, manager.

WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Aug. 8—The future of the entente was believed at stake today when the allied supreme council met in the most important session since the war. The meeting found France and Great Britain diametrically opposed on practically every question to come up.

The session was notable in that Col. George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain was to sit with the council, renewing American participation.

Although he was to act as an "observer" it was hoped he would be the mediator in the dispute between Great Britain and France. Italy and Japan figured in the session as probable arbitrators, also.

Lloyd George Will Not Attend Dis- armament Conference

(By United Press)

Paris, August 8—British Premier, Lloyd George, will not attend the Washington disarmament conference, he told newspaper correspondents today.

Lloyd George said he would not be able to make the trip and that it had not been decided as yet who would compose the British delegation.

Denies Announcement

Paris Aug. 8—Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain may yet attend the Washington disarmament conference despite the widely circulated announcement today that he did not intend to do so.

The announcement that he would not attend the conference aroused keen interest here and in England when cabled here.

Shortly before 3 p. m. the premier's secretary issued a formal statement denying the first announcement. No further details were made public.

China Agrees to Armistice Day for Arms Conference

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 8—The state department today received a communication from China accepting the American proposal of November 11 as the date for the opening of the Washington disarmament and Pacific conference. Police said today that there is a strong state case against Burch, although they have not established a motive.

Burch, son of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. A. Burch of Evanston, Illinois, and former son-in-law of Bishop Wm. Quayle, was an intimate friend of Mrs. Oberchain and Kennedy. After his arrest at Los Vegas Burch readily agreed to waive extradition and returned to Los Angeles.

Stands by Divorced Wife

Chicago, Aug. 8.—"I am waiting Madelynn's call. If she wants me or if it appears to me there is anything I can do to help her I will take the next train for Los Angeles."

That is what Attorney Ralph B. Oberchain said today. He said he was "standing by, ready at a moment's notice to speed to the side of his former wife, Madelynn Oberchain, held at Los Angeles as a material witness in the murder of J. B. Kennedy."

"I still love her—I always will," Oberchain declared.

BODY OF DR. STONE IS RECOVERED, IS BEING BROUGHT OUT

(By United Press)

Banff, Alberta, Aug. 8.—Over the same tortuous route that led him to death over Mount Eban the body of Dr. W. E. Stone, late president of Purdue university, was being brought here today.

Guides who finally wormed their way down the precipice on the mountain abyss to where the body lay since July 16, were bringing it out on a stretcher, according to word brought here by members of the Alpine club. It was believed that Mrs. Stone would suggest burying the body in the mountains here.

Tax on Advertising is Suggested in Congress

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 8.—A tax on newspaper, magazine and bill board advertising has been suggested by some members of the ways and means committee during their conference on tax revision bills, it was learned today.

A request has come to the treasury department for the yield of such a tax. Suggestions have also been made that postal rates on second class matter be increased because of an estimated deficit of $70,000,000 in the postal department during the present year.

Unemployed Riot in London, Millions in Property Destroyed

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 8.—One of the most serious unemployment riots of the year resulted in a wholesale fight and destruction of $5,000,000 worth of property here today.

More than six thousand unemployed men engaged in the riot. More than five hundred mounted police fought the mob back.

The demonstration occurred at Glickstein lumber yards, the largest in England, when 6,000 men applied for fifty vacancies.

Dr. Julius Klein, new director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who succeeds Dr. R. S. MacElwee, is a native of California and holds degrees from Harvard, University of California, Paris and Berlin. He leaves the chair of Latin-American history and economics at Harvard. From September, 1917, to May, 1919 he was chief of the Latin-American division of the same bureau over which he will now preside.

17 YEAR OLD BOY KILLS HIS MOTHER

CONCEDES TO THE CRIME—SAY-
ING THE FIRST SHOT WAS AN ACCIDENT

(By United Press)

Booneville, Ind., Aug. 8.—Willie Duffendoll, 17, the younger of two brothers held in connection with the murder of their widowed mother, Laura Duffendoll, age 70, confessed today that he was the slayer.

Willie, who had steadily accused his elder brother Dolly of the murder, said the first shot was accidental and that he shot his mother two times after that because he "did not want to see her suffer."

Willie told his story without a tear in his eyes. "I am certain of one thing," Coroner Kirkhaus said. "Willie killed his mother but he has not told the truth by a long shot. The accident story is absurd."

According to the story told to Coroner Kirkhaus Willie left Booneville Wednesday, July 27 arriving at Tennyson that night. The next day he returned home.

"Willie," the coroner said, "told me his mother fussed at him all day for having come home. He said she told him he should have stayed in Tennyson and hunted for a job."

STATE COOPERATIVE LIVE STOCK ASSN. STARTS BUSINESS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—The Minnesota Livestock Cooperative Association started business at South St. Paul today.

Four car loads of cattle were received as a starter this morning. The association is operating on rates advertised at twenty to thirty-five per cent lower than the usual rate.

Two hundred and forty Minnesota livestock organizations and twenty from Wisconsin are cooperating. More than fifty thousand farmers are represented in the project, according to W. A. McKerrow, manager.

Investigate Failure To Furnish Goods

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 8.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa, today introduced a bill calling for the federal trade commission to investigate the failure of furnishing goods to follow the general downward trend of prices. Kenyon's action followed complaint by farm organizations.

SUPREME COUNCIL MEETS IN PARIS, IMPORTANT SESSION

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE OP-
POSED ON ALL IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR HARVEY
SITS IN AS AN "OB-SERVER"

WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Aug. 8.—The future of the entente was believed at stake today when the allied supreme council met in the most important session since the war.

The meeting found France and Great Britain diametrically opposed on practically every question to come up.

The session was notable in that Col. George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain was to sit with the council, renewing American participation.

Although he was to act as an "observer" it was hoped he would be the mediator in the dispute between Great Britain and France. Italy and Japan figured in the session as probable arbitrators, also.

Lloyd George Will Not Attend Dis- armament Conference

(By United Press)

Paris, August 8.—British Premier, Lloyd George, will not attend the Washington disarmament conference, he told newspaper correspondents today.

Lloyd George said he would not be able to make the trip and that it had not been decided as yet who would compose the British delegation.

Denies Announcement

Paris Aug. 8.—Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain may yet attend the Washington disarmament conference despite the widely circulated announcement today that he did not intend to do so.

The announcement that he would not attend the conference aroused keen interest here and in England when cabled here.

Shortly before 3 p. m. the premier's secretary issued a formal statement denying the first announcement. No further details were made public.

China Agrees to Armistice Day for Arms Conference

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 8.—The state department today received a communication from China accepting the American proposal of November 11 as the date for the opening of the Washington disarmament and Pacific conference. Replies to this proposal were awaited today by Secretary of State Hughes from Japan and Italy. All the other powers have accepted.

BANDITS ROB POSTOFFICE SAFE

(By United Press)

Garske, N. D., Aug. 8.—The postoffice safe here, was blown and robbed of cash, stamps and securities worth $650 last night. The cashier of the bank next door heard men around the postoffice and thought he heard a report but being alone he did not go out to investigate. The bandits escaped.

BANDIT HOLDS UP BANK MESSENGER GETS $10,000 IN CASH

(By United Press)

Chicago, Aug. 8.—A lone bandit held up Leonard Hurray, bank messenger, on a crowded downtown street late today and escaped with a satchel containing $10,000 in cash.

The robbery occurred in front of the board of trade building just as the board closed and the men were leaving.

TO ASK FOR CONTINUED FEDERAL AID

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—Charles M. Babcock, Minnesota commissioner of highways, plans to leave St. Paul for Washington to join in the fight for continued federal aid on the established basis that Minnesota may include more than $2,250,000 of additional grading and graveling and 500,000 more paving in its 1921 trunk highway development plan and void threatened curtailment of fifty per cent of new construction planned.

The state highway executive, with H. Mullen, assistant commissioner and chief engineer, Ray P. Chase, state auditor, and P. J. McCauley, chief engineer, reached St. Paul last night after a 5-day tour of state parks in southern Minnesota. Preliminary plans were made for park and highway development to add to Minnesota tourist attractions.

Commissioner Babcock has been urged by federal bureau of public roads and other officials to assist at Washington in the campaign for arm-to-market highways before rich men's boulevards congress being leadlocked on the subject. He has been a leader in the fight by highway officials of progressive states in which the American Farm Bureau federation and various public organization extended special aid.

The vital importance of continuance of federal aid on the old basis to Minnesota's new highway development program especially during the first year, already has been pointed out, Commissioner Babcock said. The Phipps-Dowell bill for farm-to-market roads rather than transcontinental boulevards de luxe, and which he is advocating because Minnesota can meet every requirement advantageously, he said, is supported by an overwhelming majority in the House, and by many Senators opposed to any material change in the existing law.

The so-called "rich men's boulevards" bill by Senator Charles E. Townsend, chairman of the senate committee on postoffices and post roads, provides for a federal highway system built with state aid. Commissioner Babcock explained, while the Phipps-Dowell measure provides for state highway systems built with federal aid. The Townsend plan contemplates a federal highway commission of three-salaried members empowered to lay out the proposed federal highways without provision as to mileage.

The senate passed the Phipps bill but refused after the house attached the Dowell bill to send the altered measure to conference, much less incur in the house amendment. Instead, it was referred to Senator Townsend's committee on his motion.

Discussion in the senate, however, brought out strong opposition to change in the existing law, according to Commissioner Babcock's advice, was declared, he said, that the present law had worked out fairly well and that it would be better to tinker with a revolutionary system. Commissioner Babcock quoted from the speech made in the house by Representative John M. Robinson, Kentucky, as follows:

"The Townsend plan contemplates just a few interstate roads. A commission in Washington lays out the system. This commission will disregard, in my judgment, the system of roads which has been laid out in each state. These systems have been partly built and contracts have been let for other portions. To cut down this system and destroy it after we have spent five years and millions of dollars in building it up would be tantamount to a crime."

"It now develops," said Commissioner Babcock, "that the original Townsend bill was drafted by the American Automobile association, and I believe its primary purpose was to secure interstate tourist roads, wholly ignoring the greater need of arm-to-market roads."

"The Phipps-Dowell bill for which we are fighting provides for these arm-to-market highways and the Minnesota plan adopted under Good Roads Amendment No. 1 fits it to a T. Our plan, as the people of the state know, transfers to the state the big burden of improving and maintaining the arterial highways and sets aside motor vehicle tax revenues and federal aid for that purpose, leaving the counties large amounts of current funds with which to build up the farmer roads."

Asserting that the existing federal aid law is operating satisfactorily, Commissioner Babcock, expressed regret that an attempt is being made to disrupt plans and necessitate new beginnings in federal aid projects. He foresaw danger that proposals for federal commission and interstate tourist highways may result in a great reaction among farmers who now appreciate the importance of the good roads movement.

Commissioner Babcock will confer with officials of the bureau of public roads in Washington and with Minnesota members of congress, virtually all of whom are giving active support to the farm-to-market road legislation, and will have a special conference Tuesday with Senator Frank B. Kellogg. He expects to return to St. Paul about August 15.

All the rides and most of the shows will be open this evening. The whole carnival, outside and home talent, is expected to be open Tuesday. The carnival is located on Front street extending west of Fourth street.

The Little Giant people have seven shows, three riding devices and a motordrome. The Brainerd Municipal band has been engaged to furnish music on two evenings.

Three large tents which were to be used to house local shows have gone astray and are expected to be located today and will be set up on the grounds Tuesday.

Much interest is being manifested in the shows and a goodly percentage is expected to accrue to the park board.

STRANGE ADVENTURE OF A YOUTH FROM RICE

Royalton Banner: A 13-year-old son of J. M. McNeal of Rice was the victim of what was supposed to be a joke Sunday. The lad was asked the route and distance to Brainerd by three men traveling in an automobile. They asked the boy to ride with them, and as soon as he got into the car he was tied and held. After passing Brainerd a short distance they released the boy and he started home on foot, a distance of over 50 miles. He was fortunate enough to catch rides along the way and about dark arrived at the W. L. Muncy home, west of town.

Mr. Muncy telephoned to the father of the boy who came and took him home.

The boy being excited did not get the number of the car, nor inform the Brainerd police of what had occurred, a fact that is regretted, as the men who would carry a small boy 50 miles away from home should not be allowed to run at large.

Lind-Chaplen

Miss Ellen Marie Lind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel A. Lind of Brainerd, was married on August 5 to Dr. C. R. Chaplen at Bismarck, N. D., the ceremony being performed at the First Methodist church parsonage, Rev. Quigley officiating.

Dr. and Mrs. Chaplen will make their home in Hazen, N. D. The bride gained her education in Brainerd and taught several terms in Ely. Charles A. Lind, her brother from Minneapolis, attended the ceremony, motoring to the wedding.

The young people will spend their honeymoon at the lakes near Brainerd.

Gingham and Linen and Dotted Swiss and Organdie Used for Summer Chapeaux.

There has been no sudden leap from shaped hats to draped hats, writes a correspondent. The change has been gradual, but the smartest thing that one can do in the way of headgear is to wear a hat that is made of something other than the long-accepted but stuffs. The milliners used to say that this and that fabric would not "make up" well for hats, but now the feeling is that they stop at nothing when it comes to fashioning a hat out of some strange fabric never before used for that purpose.

Then there are hats of gingham and linen and dotted swiss and organdie—all of the materials, in fact, that are used for summer cotton dresses. Sometimes they are fitted to the shapes underlying them and at other times they choose to drape themselves about a smaller shape, forming deep folds and becoming twistings.

A fashion that has appeared in spots during the last few weeks is that of wearing a hat to match, in some way, the material of the gown. For instance, there was seen a tailored frock of dark blue linen inconspicuously trimmed and bound with white cotton braid and worn with a white mull blouse. Then there was worn with this a short-brimmed sailor made of the heavy linen fitted to the shape and trimmed with a broad and crispness of which added largely to the generally cool look of the gown itself.

Most of the summer hats are large, for the simple reason that the heat and sun of the season really demand this sort of protection. And some of the sweetest of the really summery hats are made either of white or very lightly tinted organdie.

THE DIFFERENCE IN CLOTHES

Overdecoration Covers Up Defects That Are Not to Be Found in Plain Garments.

Present-day clothes may be criticized on the score of overdecoration. Not all of them, of course, but ready-made clothes are inclined to stagger under a weight of beading or embroidery or be overemphasized by too much zeal on the part of the designer.

Plain clothes are always the most expensive. The best dressmakers and tailors are those that devote their talents to achieving excellence of line and to using excellent materials. It is more difficult to make a well-cut line, which has no trimming to detract from its cut, than to make a really fancy gown. Every woman who has made things herself knows how much simpler it is to make evening frocks and fluffy afternoon things than it is to make plain good-looking street clothes.

Simplicity is the greatest possible luxury—it always comes high, but one beautifully cut and made gown of good material is worth half a dozen cheap ones, and it is the woman who selects her clothes on this premise who is considered a well-dressed woman.

No matter how attractive one's frocks and hats may be, if they are worn for inappropriate occasions, their charm is lost. One must always consider the occasion and it is an ill-advised woman who converts her best frock into a business one, unless it happens to be appropriate for business wear.

Renew Vells.

Hawaii Talks Many Tongues.

Sixty-eight different languages and dialects are used over the telephone lines of Honolulu, according to evidence at the public utilities commission hearing on the Mutual Telephone company's application to increase its rates recently. The list of tongues representing the cosmopolitan conversations of the island include 11 separate national languages, 49 Japanese dialects, seven Chinese dialects and English. The telephone officials protested they were unable to check the number of business calls separate from social calls because of the babel of tongues.

Wasted Man Power.

Those accustomed to the good old ways are always insistent in their declaration that the claims of the efficiency experts have been greatly exaggerated. New methods, whatever their virtue, are not always popular. It is observed that it still requires the services of two willing adult workers to display the wonders of a three-ring circus satisfactorily to one youngster.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE PHONE CALL

By ANITA WEBB.

(Copyright, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Supper at Miss Almira's boarding house was in progress.

"Steak, cold ham, potato salad, hash or liver!" sang Millie, first class waitress, all in one breath.

"Steak! I love it! I'll have some," beamed Mrs. Miller, the only inhabitant of the Palace House who could stomach the well-browned leather the mistress of that establishment served as steak.

"What'll youse two have?" demanded Millie of the "hallroom boys," Tom and Dave.

"What was that first piece you rendered?" asked the latter.

"Cease, fair girl, cease! If you are passing around steak, my friend and I will have two nice, fresh cold storage eggs boiled to a crisp!"

"Sasso? Don't be sassy or you'll get nothin'!" Millie was a very independent waitress, and being Miss Almira's niece, ventured more remarks during meal hours than President Harding at a meeting of congress.

"Give me some liver and—"

"Awright, Mr. Moore," put in Millie, before he had a chance to finish.

"Hash, please," spoke up Mr. Perrin.

"Our kitchen has been cleaned up today," said Dave.

"How can you tell, you funny fellow?" gushed Mrs. Miller.

"Hash for supper!" gravely returned Dave.

"Oh, my stars!" Mrs. Miller went into a spasm of laughter, consisting of gurgles, sneezes and coughs.

"Evening," remarked Mr. Richards, as he took his place at the table. "Why the gloom, Dave?"

"Them's harsh words! I was just thinking of the eggs I must feast upon tonight, and trying to imagine I liked 'em when along you come, suggesting gloom!"

"Ha, ha!" roared Mr. Perrin. "When you boys have been here seven years like me, you'll stand anything, and like anything."

"Seven months is plenty; we couldn't stand it another seven," said Tom.

"Good evening," Miss Allen slipped into her place opposite Mr. Richards. "Good evening," spoke he, timidly. "Good evening," spoke she, slowly. "Hum!" muttered Tom.

"Quite so!" whispered Dave, in his ear. "Methinks some dire disaster has fallen. Richle and Allie used to be good friends—church, Sundays; movies, Wednesday and Saturday, and now they hardly speak."

Supper at Miss Almira's boarding house was over, for which the suffering boarders were duly thankful. The entire assembly gathered on the porch to talk over the day's events. Miss Allen found a little rocker in one corner, and seating herself, gazed up at the evening sky.

"Fran—Miss Allen."

"Mr. Richards?" in cold tones.

"Miss Allen, why have you avoided me so, of late?"

"I had my reasons, Mr. Richards."

"You used to call me Edgar," he reminded.

"That was before you were engaged to Julia."

"To er—what, who?" he demanded.

"I believe you heard me," came in 10 below zero tones.

"But I suppose it was understood that we, you and I—"

"I supposed so, too. You practically asked me to marry you, and I practically agreed."

"Then what is the matter?"

"I distinctly heard you say over the phone: 'Congratulations, Bill; I'm to be married next week.' 'Who to?' asked Bill, 'Julia,' you said. My name is Frances," finished Miss Allen.

"There must be a mistake somewhere," insisted Mr. Richards.

"Impossible. I heard you myself. You are the only Edgar here."

"How did you hear me?"

"I—well, I got the call, so couldn't help hearing," stammered Miss Allen.

She was a telephone operator, and, strangely enough, her switchboard was on the Palace House line.

"Frances, wait!" Mr. Richards dashed off.

Mr. Moore, just about to descend the steps on his way to his club, felt a heavy hand upon his collar and found himself being rudely dragged back up the steps.

"Wait!" he yelled. Then found himself standing in front of Miss Allen.

"I have it, Frances. You didn't know, but Mr. Moore's name is Edgar, too, and he is engaged to Julia Mason. It was he you heard over the wire. Tell her it's so, old man," Mr. Richards hurriedly explained, while Mr. Moore stood glaring and rubbing the back of his neck.

"Yes, that's right," he admitted, "and Julie is the best little woman you ever saw."

"Can you forgive me, Edgar?" humbly asked Miss Allen.

"If you'll cook my meals for the rest of our lives, yes!" was the answer.

Of course, the "hall room boys" were right around the corner of the porch, listening to it all.

"No more hash, stewed prunes or canned corn for him—lucky dog!" muttered Dave.

"Let us get married, then, and have no more of it," suggested Tom.

"Huh? Say, stewed prunes, canned corn and hash aren't that bad!" quickly retorted Dave.

Hawaii Talks Many Tongues.

Sixty-eight different languages and dialects are used over the telephone lines of Honolulu, according to evidence at the public utilities commission hearing on the Mutual Telephone company's application to increase its rates recently. The list of tongues representing the cosmopolitan conversations of the island include 11 separate national languages, 49 Japanese dialects, seven Chinese dialects—and English. The telephone officials protested they were unable to check the number of business calls separate from social calls because of the babel of tongues.

Wasted Man Power.

Those accustomed to the good old ways are always insistent in their declaration that the claims of the efficiency experts have been greatly exaggerated. New methods, whatever their virtue, are not always popular. It is observed that it still requires the services of two willing adult workers to display the wonders of a three-ring circus satisfactorily to one youngster.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE PHONE CALL

By ANITA WEBB.

(Copyright, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Supper at Miss Almira's boarding house was in progress.

"Steak, cold ham, potato salad, hash or liver?" sang Millie, first class waitress, all in one breath.

"Steak! I love it! I'll have some," beamed Mrs. Miller, the only inhabitant of the Palace House who could stomach the well-browned leather the mistress of that establishment served as steak.

"What'll youse two have?" demanded Millie of the "hallroom boys," Tom and Dave.

"What was that first piece you rendered?" asked the latter.

"Cease, fair girl, cease! If you are passing around steak, my friend and I will have two nice, fresh cold storage eggs boiled to a crisp!"

"Saiso? Don't be sassy or youse'll get nothin'!" Millie was a very independent waitress, and being Miss Almira's niece, ventured more remarks during meal hours than President Harding at a meeting of congress.

"Give me some liver and—"

"Awright, Mr. Moore," put in Millie, before he had a chance to finish.

"Hash, please," spoke up Mr. Perrin.

"Our kitchen has been cleaned up today," said Dave.

"How can you tell, you funny fellow?" gushed Mrs. Miller.

"Hash for supper!" gravely returned Dave.

"Oh, my stars!" Mrs. Miller went into a spasm of laughter, consisting of gurgles, sneezes and coughs.

"Evening," remarked Mr. Richards, as he took his place at the table. "Why the gloom, Dave?"

"Them's harsh words! I was just thinking of the eggs I must feast upon tonight, and trying to imagine I liked 'em when along you come, suggesting gloom!"

"Ha, ha!" roared Mr. Perrin. "When you boys have been here seven years like me, you'll stand anything, and like anything."

"Seven months is plenty; we couldn't stand it another seven," said Tom.

"Good evening," Miss Allen slipped into her place opposite Mr. Richards. "Good evening," spoke he, timidly. "Good evening," spoke she, slowly. "Hum!" muttered Tom.

"Quite so!" whispered Dave, in his ear. "Methinks some dire disaster has fallen. Richle and Allie used to be good friends—church, Sundays; movies, Wednesday and Saturday, and now they hardly speak."

Supper at Miss Almira's boarding house was over, for which the suffering boarders were duly thankful. The entire assembly gathered on the porch to talk over the day's events. Miss Allen found a little rocker in one corner, and seating herself, gazed up at the evening sky.

"Fran—Miss Allen."

"Mr. Richards?" in cold tones.

"Miss Allen, why have you avoided me so, of late?"

"I had my reasons, Mr. Richards."

"You used to call me Edgar," he reminded.

"That was before you were engaged to Julia."

"To er—what, who?" he demanded. "I believe you heard me," came in 10 below zero tones.

"But I suppose it was understood that we, you and I—"

"I supposed so, too. You practically asked me to marry you, and I practically agreed."

"Then what is the matter?"

"I distinctly heard you say over the phone: 'Congratulate me, Bill; I'm to be married next week.' 'Who to?' asked Bill. 'Julia,' you said. My name is Frances," finished Miss Allen.

"There must be a mistake somewhere," insisted Mr. Richards.

"Impossible. I heard you myself. You are the only Edgar here."

"How did you hear me?"

"I—well, I got the call, so couldn't help hearing," stammered Miss Allen. She was a telephone operator, and, strangely enough, her switchboard was on the Palace House line.

"Frances, wait!" Mr. Richards dashed off.

Mr. Moore, just about to descend the steps on his way to his club, felt a heavy hand upon his collar and found himself being rudely dragged back up the steps.

"Wait!" he yelled. Then found himself standing in front of Miss Allen.

"I have it, Frances. You didn't know, but Mr. Moore's name is Edgar, too, and he is engaged to Julia Mason. It was he you heard over the wire. Tell her it's so, old man," Mr. Richards hurriedly explained, while Mr. Moore stood glaring and rubbing the back of his neck.

"Yes, that's right," he admitted, "and Julia is the best little woman you ever saw."

"Can you forgive me, Edgar?" humbly asked Miss Allen.

"If you'll cook my meals for the rest of our lives, yes!" was the answer.

Of course, the "hall room boys" were right around the corner of the porch, listening to it all.

"No more hash, stewed prunes or canned corn for him—lucky dog!" muttered Dave.

"Let us get married, then, and have no more of it," suggested Tom.

"Huh? Say, stewed prunes, canned corn and hash aren't that bad!" quickly retorted Dave.

AUTOMOBILE TAXES

A Washington correspondent says: The suggestion that every automobile owner be taxed ten dollars may not prove popular, but President Harding himself stands back of that proposal and drives home the argument for it by saying that if the people who are driving cars want the government to keep on aiding the states by paying half the cost of building roads they ought not to object to paying something directly for that purpose.

Our representatives in Congress should and probably will call the attention of the president and his advisors to the fact that in Minnesota the car owners are distinctly under the impression that they are already "paying something directly for that purpose," inasmuch as under the Babcock law they alone pay all of the other half of the cost of building the roads that are thus aided by the government. And there are laws of a like character in a number of other states.

CONSOLIDATE INDIAN AGENCIES

Charles H. Burke, commissioner of Indian Affairs, was in Duluth on Friday last, on a trip of inspection in Northern Minnesota. Mr. Burke made the announcement that administration of Indian affairs in Minnesota is to be centralized soon and controlled through one consolidated agency. In the interest of economy and efficiency, he says, the agencies at Red Lake, Leech Lake and White Earth will be abandoned. The headquarters of the consolidated office has not yet been decided upon. Detroit, Bemidji, Cass Lake and Walker are all out after it.

WHY BOYS LEAVE FARM

I left my dad, his farm, his plow because my calf became his cow; I left my dad—'twas wrong of course—because my colt became his horse. I left my dad to sow and reap because my lamb became his sheep; I dropped my hoe and stuck my fork because my pig became his pork. The garden truck I made to grow was his to sell and mine to hoe.—Successful Farming.

Investigation into alleged unfair business practices of Northwest coal dealers is being conducted at the State Capitol by the Department of Agriculture, and will probably be concluded in a week or so. According to a Pioneer Press bureau dispatch the Federal trade commission at Washington, after making investigations, is ready to start prosecutions against offenders.

Reports made public in Washington show that employment increased in both St. Paul and Minneapolis during July. The increase in St. Paul was given at 9.4 per cent and in Minneapolis .7 per cent. Unemployment is growing, however, in the country, it was shown.

It is now very generally understood that unless unexpected opposition develops, the international conference on disarmament and Far Eastern subjects, proposed by President Harding, will be held Nov. 11, the third anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

The wheat harvest is helping the farmer dig out of debt.

And He Meant So Well.

I was escorting two girl friends home from a dance one night, when we noticed a wide-open window in a house we were passing. Thinking to avert a possible burglary, I stuck my head inside and shouted, "Say, good people—But that was as far as I got, for a bucketful of water struck me full in the face and a furious female voice shouted, 'I told you what you'd get if you didn't get home before ten!'"—Chicago Journal.

Profitable Interference.

"Always mind your own business," says a writer. "It doesn't pay to get mixed up in other people's quarrels." Nonsense! That's how the lawyer makes his living.

HAT SHOULD DENOTE MOOD

Why and Wherefore of the Subject
Dealt With at Length by English Writer.

I never put on a new hat without a certain feeling of pity for the mere man who can never enjoy the delicious thrill that it gives, writes J. M. in the London Daily Mail.

But there is much to be gone through before that triumphant moment arrives, for the business of choosing a new hat is fraught with nervous apprehension lest our choice fall upon the wrong shape or color.

Only moral cowards take refuge in perpetual black headgear.

What, then, is it exactly that we feel within ourselves as we step into the open street for the first time in a new hat?

If the hat is an undoubted success, it gives a peculiar sense of elation—a knowledge that she is looking her best always makes a woman feel her prettiest!

Hats should be indicative of the moods of the wearer. Black for dignity, dark blue for sobriety, brown for calm days, red for hustling days.

The hat with the nodding roses denotes a gay midsummer mood, the "modest violet" toques makes a mute appeal to romance.

The dashing cavalier of a hat with sweeping plumes (none of your glycerined travesties, but well-nourished billowy ostrich feathers) precludes an adventure, while the Quaker gray toque with the floating veil goes with demure, downcast eyes.

But for real happiness give me the old felt hat that lives at the back of the wardrobe and has survived the "turning out" of many years. As we cram this old friend on to our head, with a pull at the brim to shade the eyes, the cool air of the uplands comes to meet us even as we reach for a stick and pass out through the open door on the road which leads back to the land of happy memories.

MARAT HONORED AS PATRIOT

Bloodthirsty Leader of French Revolution Interred With the Great Ones of the Nation.

From the destruction of the Bastille, 132 years ago, July 14, the commencement of the French Revolution is dated, and its sanguinary fanaticism has no representative of such odious repulsiveness as John Paul Marat, who was assassinated in 1793. By birth a Swiss of Calvinistic parents, he had led a strange life for 45 years—latterly a sort of quack physician—when the great national crisis brought him to the surface as a journalist and a member of the convention. Less than five feet high, with frightful countenance and maniacal eye, he was an object of aversion to most people; but he had frantic earnestness and hesitated at no violence against the enemies of liberty, and so came to possess the entire confidence and affection of the mob of Paris. His paper daily clamored for blood and he desired every well-dressed person to be put to death. It was on July 14, four years after the fall of the Bastille, that Charlotte Corday stabbed him to death in his bath to avenge the fate of her friend, one Barbaroux. Marat's death was treated as a public calamity and his body was deposited in the Pantheon with great honors.—Chicago Journal.

Fight Locusts With Airplanes.

The locust plague in southern France is being fought with the aid of airplanes. One hundred thousand acres of fertile land have been devastated. The pests are hatching out in isolated spots on the great Crau plain, and each new "nest" gives birth to many millions of locusts. It is of vital importance to destroy the young insects before they are strong enough to fly far, and this is where the airplanes are proving so useful. Pilots now daily scour the whole of the Crau plain, flying extremely low. When they locate a breeding ground or "nest" of locusts directions are immediately telephoned to the anti-locust headquarters at Miramas. If there is long grass near, petrol is poured on it and it is set afire. Otherwise the infested area is strewn with sawdust soaked in arsenic. This kills the locusts at once, and also any eggs that are unhatched.

French Courtesy.

In one of the smaller cities in central France used by a division headquarters during the winter of 1918-19, Alphonse, the barber, endeavored to learn to speak English. To this end he was diligently coached by numerous Yank dispatch bearers, sergeant majors and clerical workers, and Alphonse learned fast.

No less a personage than the commanding general of the division strode into the barber shop one day and demanded a shave in a hurry. Alphonse, who was tending a lowly enlisted customer, knew rank when he saw it, and rose to the occasion.

"Sairtainlee, mon general," he replied, bowing with the French politeness. "Seet down, mon general, an' you be nex' beeg steef!"

China a Flour Exporter.

At a time when there are so many appeals for funds with which to purchase flour for shipment to the Chinese famine victims, it is rather unbelievable that in normal times China produces sufficient flour for export purposes. Yet in 1920 almost six million barrels of Chinese flour were shipped to Europe. New mills are contemplated in the wheat growing sections.—Scientific American.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Lyceum

Princess Jones craved for two wonderful weeks to make up for two years of unrelieved drudgery as clerk and janitor in her uncle's general store at Cobweb Corners. She felt that she had to do something striking to justify the name "Princess," which her mother had given her hopefully to offset the unimpressive "Jones." Her two weeks' adventure at Dulcet Beach, in the course of which she met and became chummy with a real princess of the blood, proved more wonderful than anything she had dreamed.

The story is told in "Princess Jones," a romantic and stirring photodrama by Joseph Franklin Poland, a Vitagraph production starring Alice Calhoun which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Tuesday.

Many times Larry Semon, in his clever comedies, has carried everything before him, but never quite so strikingly as is the case in "The Suitor," which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Tuesday. All his most striking and effective methods are employed in "The Suitor."

Coming to the Lyceum

The Lyceum theatre announces as the featured attraction beginning on Wednesday "The Dwelling Place of Light," a Benjamin B. Hampton production made from the great novel of the same name by Winston Churchill.

At the New Park

"He's Tight and can't dance!" What more sweeping condemnation could be heaped on a young man by a beautiful girl? When Jenny of the dance halls finds her old "chick sweetie" rich but stingy, she does her best to jolt him loose from some extra "change." But he's "Burglar Proof" until the beautiful Laura comes on the scene—and then, ah, then!

Manager Workman of the New Park theatre has booked "Burglar Proof" for a two day's run beginning today. It is a comedy-drama. Bryant Washburn is the star and Lois Wilson, his leading woman.

Mr. Washburn is said to have his funniest and yet most human role as John Harlow, a young country lout who, shamed because his uncle refuses to lend him money to take his girl on an excursion, resolves "never to be broke again." He carries this slogan to the point of miserliness until he meets the right girl—when his common sense comes to his aid after a series of very funny incidents.

Thomas Santschi will also appear on the bill in "The Imposter," a thrilling western drama with a story that clutches at your heartstrings and team's with excitement from start to finish. Another of those double star programs and believe us a good one.

Few Insects Harmful to Man.

Relatively speaking, very few species of insects are harmful in any way to man and his works. The injurious species amount to less than 1 per cent of the whole. On the other hand, a great many species are beneficial to mankind. Pollination of crops like clover would be impossible without insect visitations, and the same is true of many garden flowers and important fruits.

THEY DO IT!

We spent years experimenting with different blends of tobaccos to obtain —a new flavor

—a more pleasing aroma
—and to obtain what is more important still—the one thing that smokers have always wished a cigarette would do—

"SATISFY!"

And Chesterfields do "satisfy." For in Chesterfields the tobaccos—Turkish, and Burley and other choice home-grown varieties—are blended differently—and better—to give you and all smokers that greater measure of cigarette enjoyment.

They Satisfy

MILITARY RITES TO SOLDIER BOY

Honors Paid Private Louis Hill Who Gained Croix de Guerre and the French Fourraguerre

MANY CITATIONS FOR BRAVERY
Young Hill Was Born in Garrison Township and Attended School in Brainerd—Joined Marines

The funeral of Private Louis Hill, returned overseas hero soldier, was held Sunday afternoon from the D. E. Whitney chapel. Rev. J. E. Cadwell officiated.

Many former service men were in uniform on command of Capt. A. A. Gieriet. Service men composed the guard escort, the firing squad and acted as pall bearers. The pallbearers were Clyde E. Parker, Wm. V. Turcotte, John Sundberg, Jacobson.

The Brainerd Municipal band under leadership of W. F. Palmer played the funeral marches.

Rev. Cadwell gave a short inspiring sermon at the Whitney chapel and led the service at the cemetery where the service men also participated. Franz R. N. Anderson acted as Commander in the services and Milton Mahlum as chaplain in the absence of the regular chaplain, Rev. Fred Errington.

Louis Hill gave his life for his country—he gave it after he had made a record he might well be proud of. Awarded the Croix de Guerre and the French Fourraguerre by the French Government, cited several times by General Pershing, this true fighter, this true American boy gave his life.

How well he did his work can be gained from his citations: "During the night of June 9-10, 1918 he displayed bravery and zeal in traversing the front of three sections under violent bombardment; volunteering to act as stretcher bearer and to carry wounded to the rear" and again "After having marched at the head of an assaulting wave he and some comrades became separated from it in Belleau Wood. They attacked a German point of resistance June 13, and due to their energy, courage and coolness they surrounded it and captured one officer and 21 Germans.

Louis Hill stood the test of true Americanism, of true manhood and as he was laid away in his last resting place Sunday every soldier and every citizen was inspired by the example of this gallant young man.

Louis Hill was a Brainerd boy attending school here for many years. He was born in Garrison township. Early in 1917 he enlisted and trained at Mare Island, California and Quantico, Virginia. He was sent overseas in April 1918 and there joined the 18th Company 5th Marines 2nd Division. A sister of the deceased is Mrs. Neil McKay of Libby, Minnesota who attended the funeral Sunday.

ST. PAUL EXPRESS WIN

Visiting Team Defeats Carmen 6 to 4 in Sunday Afternoon Game, Benefit Papermakers

The St. Paul Express team defeated the Carmen of Brainerd 6 to 4 in a thirteen inning game Sunday afternoon at the Koering grounds. Batteries for the St. Paul Express men were Houle and Carter and for the Carmen were Soderlund and Callahan.

The Brainerd boys made a good start when Leneau rapped out a home run. It jarred the St. Paul pitcher to have a team start off like that on the first jump.

The money gained goes into a fund for the striking papermakers.

CHARGED WITH STEALING BUICK

Ed R. White is Brought Back from Ottawa, Illinois, Late Saturday Afternoon

GIVES DISPATCH AND INTERVIEW
Admitted Taking the Imgrund Car from Lum Park and Then With Companion Drove to Bemidji

Ed R. White, charged with stealing a Buick automobile from the Imgrund Auto company July 8, the complaint charging grand larceny in the first degree, was brought back from Ottawa, LaSalle county, Illinois, on Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Claus A. Theorin.

There was no fight made over extradition. It was an odd string of circumstances which brought White to a halt in the Illinois town. He was driving to that town when he ran into a farmer's Ford and refused to settle for it. The farmer telephoned on ahead and a constable stopped White and was on the point of permitting him to proceed unmolested when the sheriff of LaSalle county showed up. He examined White's grip and found a big revolver and 150 rounds of ammunition in it.

There is an Illinois law which permits tying up a car and keeping a man charged with an accident in custody for ten days until the case is settled. White was jailed and having some money secured a lawyer to get him out of his difficulties.

The sheriff became suspicious and wired the Buick company as to ownership of the car. They looked to their records and said the Buick was first sold to Fred C. Cook. The latter is now in business in Fargo, N. D. This is the car which Cook bought from the Imgrund's of Brainerd and later sold back to them.

Gives Interview

White, when seen in the county jail, gave an interview to the Dispatch man. He made no bones about taking the car.

"Five kids saw me take it from Lum park", he said.

He drove from the park and was joined at the gate by his companion. They did not drive to Crosby but took the road to Bemidji, Stevens, Crookston and later to Coleman, S. D.

A Former Gob

White says he was in the navy a year and was discharged in February, 1919. He is 29 years old, and was formerly married.

His Companion King

His companion he named King, and he was the short man with him at Brainerd. In driving through Illinois King left him at Kewanee and was to meet him on a Sunday morning in the LaSalle hotel in Chicago.

Then came the accident with the farmer and White was arrested. The LaSalle county sheriff had a chance to nab King in Chicago at the meeting place arranged, but failed to do so.

King, said White, is a man he first met near Sauk Center.

He admitted that both had registered at the Ransford hotel July 7 before the car was taken, but claimed he and King had separate rooms.

In his effects were found three puttees he had previously worn as part of his soldier's outfit.

A registration card carried by him gave his name as Edward R. White.

Ottawa Papers

Ottawa papers ran the case with scare heads. They claimed White was the brains and head of a big automobile ring that he was a desperate gun man and they called him the Beau Brummel of the underworld. At the time White was taken he wore a Palm Beach suit, fine shoes and hat.

"Those Ottawa papers accused me of everything except murder", said White in Brainerd. "There was no firing taking the car. I only got into trouble because I was out of money, had no job and was down on my luck. That made me start stealing".

"I don't want my mother to hear of this", said White. "I am not married now, having been divorced from my wife".

Personal Appearance

White, when seen in the jail, wore whiskers of several days' growth. He stands 5 feet 11 inches tall and carries himself well.

Arraigned in Court

White was arraigned in municipal court Monday morning before Judge J. H. Warner and was bound over to the district court. Bonds were placed at $2000. Late today or early Tuesday White is expected to plead guilty.

OFFICERS CAPTURED LARGE DISTILLERY

Hidden in the Jungles of Lookout Lake, Near the Klondyke Railway Water Tank

52 GALLONS OF MOONSHINE
200 Gallons of Mash Taken, Also One 25 Gallon Copper Still and the Operator

A large distillery operating in the open air of the jungles of Lookout lake, on the shores of the lake south of the Klondyke water tank of the Northern Pacific railway, was captured by Special Officers E. G. Boyd and George Rardin.

It has been known for some time that Irondale township was the center of a large output of moonshine and the officers watched the jungles for two days before they solved the route to the place. The owner, Mike Tolen, was observed rowing across the place.

He was captured stirring the mash. A double barreled loaded shotgun rested near a stump, but the officers moved so quickly there was no chance for the moonshiner to get the weapon. The whole manufacturing paraphernalia, a twenty-five gallon copper still, fifty-two gallons of moonshine and 200 gallons of mash stood in a shady place, artfully concealed in the woods. Tolen it is claimed, worked nights. There was no building near the place for miles around. He was taken to Brainerd, appeared before U. S. Court Commissioner A. D. Polk, and was bound over to the federal court in bonds of $1,000, which was furnished. Tolen is an Austrian, a single man, who has lived in America the past eight years.

AUSTRIAN WOMAN ARRESTED

Charged With Selling Liquor at Her Home in Crosby Fined in Municipal Court

Agnes Minser of Crosby, charged with selling intoxicating liquor at her home, was arraigned in municipal court in Crosby before Judge D. J. Johnson and was fined $100 and costs. The defendant is an Austrian woman. The complaint was made by Officers E. G. Boyd and George Rardin of Brainerd.

OFFERED $500

Man Charged With Infraction of the Liquor Laws Seeks to Buy His Way to Freedom

Officer E. G. Boyd and George Rardin took into custody Frank Burgstaller, of Dean Lake township. He was charged with having several gallons of moonshine in jars in bushes at his home. Burgstaller was lodged in the city jail in Brainerd and is to be arraigned before U. S. Court Commissioner A. D. Polk.

Burgstaller, said the officers, did not relish taking the trip to Brainerd. He offered the officers $200 to release him. As they continued driving the driver to Brainerd, he gradually increased his cash offer to $500, plus $1 a mile to haul him back. The offer was not accepted.

About Our Fall and Winter Garments

¶ We want, and believe we shall merit, your complete confidence in the offerings of our store; in the quality, the style and the price of all merchandise sold.

¶ To the end that our ready to wear section may have your complete confidence, our Mr. Michael and our Miss Benson spent ten days in a representative market selecting our initial showing of garments of style and of quality which can be retailed at popular prices.

¶ It may interest you to know that over 60 separate lines were inspected representing manufacturers in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago. The garments you will find on our racks are the choice of the styles offered by these manufacturers.

¶ We confidently believe that the new fall lines will be the best we have offered. We have left nothing undone to merit your complete confidence and ask you to see these garments as we announce them from time to time.

IS GOLF REALLY IRISH GAME?

Suggestion Put Forward, With Some Evidence, by Correspondent of New York Herald.

Writing to the New York Herald, a devotee of the "royal game" puts the query "Is golf, after all, an Irish game?"

In asking the question it is done with respect and reverence; in no sense to disturb the settled ease and mental poise and satisfaction of ye good Scot or Briton. Why the suggestion, however? Simply this: Ireland was the first of the islands to be reclaimed from Druidism and converted to Christianity. That was in the early fifth century. After that Scotland and Ireland became Christian—the sixth century; England in the eighth and Germany in the ninth century, and all following and through Irish missionaries. True also that the Scotch and Irish were practically all Celt and one people then and all friendly. Now, then, it is of the old Irish folk-lore that St. Patrick at the famous Druid feast showed (1) that the leg of a bird was larger than a quarter of beef (2) that a dog could kill the bird, and (3) that three leaves could jointly subsist on one stem, and at that feast "there were feats of strength and art all round," and among the games was the game of "Nine Holes."

That was the first mention of the nine hole game, of course. It was so played in Ireland for centuries. It was the putting of the ball into each hole of the nine as laid out in the course. Therefore, the question: Was that game the forerunner of its kind in the world, and if so was it the forerunner or key-stone of golf?

AIR LIFEBOAT BRITISH IDEA

Craft Designed for Sea Rescue Work Is Soon to Be Given a Definite "Tryout."

The first lifeboat of the air, which has been built with great secrecy, is to be launched soon in England.

After the official trials it will go through a series of tests, with the British fleet. If it proves to be satisfactory, a large number of the craft on a much larger scale will be constructed. The design is the outcome of three years of secret research and tests. The flying lifeboat will be able to reach a vessel in distress at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, and it is claimed that it will be able to ride through the roughest storm with the confident safety of an Atlantic liner. The boats are able to taxi along the water.

Their seaworthiness is to be tested by sending the first experimental ship out with the navy, where it is to remain at sea for several days without any "mother ship."

The wing span of the one now nearing completion is 140 feet. Safety in the most violent sea will come from the resilience of the hull, which is in one piece from stem to stern. When this hull strikes a huge wave it gives way slightly in much the same way that a pneumatic tire does when it strikes an obstacle on the road.

Plan Shrines to Burroughs.

The John Burroughs Memorial association has started its campaign to raise funds to purchase and maintain the various properties of the late naturalist. It is estimated it will take about $36,000 to purchase them, and an additional $4,000 to maintain them the first year.

The association intends to maintain the Burroughs properties as the naturalist himself maintained them. His working library, some of his original manuscripts, rifles, shotguns and fishing tackle will be exhibited. It is the opinion of the association that shrines to great men, especially shrines to literary men, are too few, and that the many friends and admirers of John Burroughs will be interested in keeping up the places in which he lived, studied and labored in the 84 years of his life. It hopes to raise funds to maintain these properties by popular subscription.—New York Times.

Waterproof Matches.

Campers and picnickers will hail with delight the new waterproof match, which can be easily made at home in the following way: Melt a few lumps of candle wax in an old can on the stove. Allow this to cool a little and then, before it has set, dip the matches in, one at a time. Treat the heads and about half of the wooden part. Place the matches on one side to cool. Matches treated in this simple manner have been soaked in water for many hours, and they have ignited as readily as those which were perfectly dry. The only difference is that, in striking, it is

Softest Known Wood.

Trees belonging to the genus Jacaranta, growing in tropical America, are remarkable for their soft wood. After part of the bark is cut away a machete can be shoved to the center of the trunk with ease. The wood, when fresh, can be cut into blocks with a knife, as one would cut up parsnips or turnips. As the wood dries, it shrinks to a small fraction of its original bulk.

NORTHWEST NEWS

Come to Lakes by Plane

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 8.—Two Texans were scheduled to leave Fort Worth today in airplanes, headed for the northern Minnesota lakes to fish. A. S. Emery, an officer of the Fort Worth Aerial Transport Company, made a reservation here, saying that the party would arrive tomorrow.

Dye Situation

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 8.—America will master the dye situation if given time. Gilbert A. Currie, attorney for the Dow Chemical company of Midland, Mich., declared here before the retail druggists.

The country entered into the dye manufacturing in sheer desperation during the war, Currie said, but now has more than two hundred concerns manufacturing more than three hundred dyes in quality equal and in some cases superior, to German dyes.

Twin City Air Derby

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—The Northwest is taking the lead in aviation.

Twin City aviators are bringing leading aerial authorities here in September for the Twin City National Air Derby and preliminary organization caucus of the International Aerial Congress.

The national air derby will be a special attraction for the Minnesota State Fair and will be staged September 5 to 7.

Prizes totaling more than $15,000 will be awarded in the aerial contests. The first events will be on September 5, Tuesday, the 6th will be an exhibition day, and Wednesday will be the big day of the derby.

The Minnesota Observation Squadron, the only unit of its kind in the country, will give an exhibition of formations on Tuesday. The squadron is in command of Lieut.-Col. W. C. Garis.

Donald K. Hudson, general secretary of the air derby, Minneapolis Aero club, said the derby will be the first of its kind in the history of aviation. It will bring flyers here from all parts of the United States and from Canada, he said.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not, sinful we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness.

By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Advertisers in the Daily Dispatch

Now get the same cut service as the big city dailies.

We have made arrangements with the Murray Illustrated Advertising Company of New York, for the furnishing of cuts for advertising purposes absolutely free to our patrons. This service is the best in America and has as clients some of the largest newspapers published.

Never before has it been possible for a paper to furnish this service without a considerable added outlay on the part of the advertiser, and even now it is only offered to the paper recognized by advertisers and readers as the leader in its section.

The Dispatch buys the cuts; the advertiser pays for the space in the paper at the same rate as for other advertising. Many of our patrons have already taken advantage of this offer and others are invited to do so.

We will be glad to explain the matter more fully

WHEN SIMS GOT IN WRONG

Capitol Barber on Record as Making Bad Break to the Then Senator Harding.

The odds are 200 to 2 that the senators will say that Sims is the most popular barber in the senate barber shop. Sims has the cream of the senate trade and he has been in the senate barber shop longer than anyone knows. He has become expert not only on shaving and cutting hair and massaging, but on political matters as well.

When President Harding was still a member of the senate he came in for Sims to do a little face work on him. Sims began shortly after the then senator took the chair, to talk about the dire effect on the senate of the Constitutional amendment providing for direct election of its members.

"Why, this direct election is sure a bad thing," said Sims in Mr. Harding's ear. "Why, the men who are here can't be compared with the men who were here 20 years ago."

Just about this time it dawned on Sims what he was saying and to whom he was saying it.

Probably his conscience was stirred by the fact that Mr. Harding's face was getting redder and redder as he tried to suppress his laughter.

"Oh, indeed, senator," said the stricken Sims. "I was speakin' genially. I didn't mean nothing pussual about it."—Los Angeles Times.

SIMPLE MATTER OF REASON

How Water Has Traveled From Versailles to Columbia, Mo., in Last Three Centuries.

An old Indian was sitting by a camp fire near the present site of Versailles, Mo., back in July, 1608. He was telling a story about Louis D. Moscoso, successor to De Soto, who explored the southwestern part of Missouri in 1542. "Sure, Mike," he said. "These hombres are white, have short hair, carry—" But his sentence was never finished. About that time it began to rain and the council adjourned to the shelter. It is now 312 years since that time, but the water from that very rain we are just now getting here in Columbia for drinking purposes. Don't you believe it? Well, here is the way they find such things out. During the war the army made some tests of how fast water moves under the ground. This was done by digging two wells, placing some chemicals in one to discolor the water and then waiting to see how long before the discoloration became apparent in the water of the second well. The layer of sand from which Columbia secures its water is a medium sand, neither coarse nor fine, and it was found that water moved 845 feet a year in such sand. The layer of sand outcrops at Versailles, which is approximately fifty miles from here. Figure it out.—Columbia Missourian.

Japanese Easy to Learn.

Sir Dennison Ross, director of the London school of oriental studies, in an exhortation to his countrymen to learn Japanese, says that this is one of the easiest languages of the world to pronounce. "Most of the words end in vowels and none of the consonants offer any difficulties." The structure of Japanese is very peculiar and very strange to the beginner. It is hard to realize a grammar which recognizes no persons and genders—but such is the case with the Japanese. The language also has no relative pronouns. However, there is no reason why people whose mother tongue is English should fight shy of the language. For practical, everyday purposes, six months' study of the spoken tongue will carry an intelligent man a long way provided he has competent teachers.

English Poetry and Prose.

IS GOLF REALLY IRISH GAME?

Suggestion Put Forward, With Some Evidence, by Correspondent of New York Herald.

Writing to the New York Herald, a devotee of the "royal game" puts the query "Is golf, after all, an Irish game?"

In asking the question it is done with respect and reverence; in no sense to disturb the settled ease and mental poise and satisfaction of ye good Scot or Briton. Why the suggestion, however? How Water Has Traveled From Versailles to Columbia, Mo., in Last Three Centuries.

An old Indian was sitting by a camp fire near the present site of Versailles, Mo., back in July, 1608. He was telling a story about Louis D. Moscoso, successor to De Soto, who explored the southwestern part of Missouri in 1542. "Sure, Mike," he said. "These hombres are white, have short hair, carry—" But his sentence was never finished. About that time it began to rain and the council adjourned to the shelter. It is now 312 years since that time, but the water from that very rain we are just now getting here in Columbia for drinking purposes. Don't you believe it? Well, here is the way they find such things out. During the war the army made some tests of how fast water moves under the ground. This was done by digging two wells, placing some chemicals in one to discolor the water and then waiting to see how long before the discoloration became apparent in the water of the second well. The layer of sand from which Columbia secures its water is a medium sand, neither coarse nor fine, and it was found that water moved 845 feet a year in such sand. The layer of sand outcrops at Versailles, which is approximately fifty miles from here. Figure it out.—Columbia Missourian.

Japanese Easy to Learn.

Sir Dennison Ross, director of the London school of oriental studies, in an exhortation to his countrymen to learn Japanese, says that this is one of the easiest languages of the world to pronounce. "Most of the words end in vowels and none of the consonants offer any difficulties." The structure of Japanese is very peculiar and very strange to the beginner. It is hard to realize a grammar which recognizes no persons and genders—but such is the case with the Japanese. The language also has no relative pronouns. However, there is no reason why people whose mother tongue is English should fight shy of the language. For practical, everyday purposes, six months' study of the spoken tongue will carry an intelligent man a long way provided he has competent teachers.

English Poetry and Prose.

If there is anything in literature as wonderful as English poetry it is English prose. Like the twin pillars of a mighty temple stand those two great books, the Bible of 1611, the Shakespeare of 1623, and no other country can show their equal.—George Sampson.

Advertisers in the Daily Dispatch

Now get the same cut service as the big city dailies.

We have made arrangements with the Murray Illustrated Advertising Company of New York, for the furnishing of cuts for advertising purposes absolutely free to our patrons. This service is the best in America and has as clients some of the largest newspapers published.

Never before has it been possible for a paper to furnish this service without a considerable added outlay on the part of the advertiser, and even now it is only offered to the paper recognized by advertisers and readers as the leader in its section.

The Dispatch buys the cuts; the advertiser pays for the space in the paper at the same rate as for other advertising. Many of our patrons have already taken advantage of this offer and others are invited to do so.

We will be glad to explain the matter more fully
